

W. K. BIXBY BUYS
KAUFFMAN HOME,
PRICE $600,000

Multimillionaire Will Leave His Home in Portland Place to Occupy Splendid Estate at Lindell Entrance of Forest Park.

CONSIDERATION SHOWN ON DEED WILL BE ONLY $1

Sale of House to Adolphus Busch Was Reported Before Death of Owner—Art Works Are Not Included in Transfer.

The Kauffman mansion and grounds, opposite the Lindell boulevard entrance to Forest Park, has been sold to William K. Bixby.

It was announced Saturday that the consideration had been agreed upon and the papers had all been drawn up, but they have not been filed yet.

The consideration named in the deed will be $1. This is because, Mr. Bixby says, it is not desired to make known the price paid. It is understood that Mr. Bixby will pay a sum close to $600,000 for the property.

The property, which is one of the show places of St. Louis, was created by the late John W. Kauffman, and on his death, about six months ago, it was left to Mrs. Kauffman.

It occupies an entire large city block, from Lindell boulevard to Maryland avenue and from King's highway to Euclid avenue. The house and greenhouses and stable cost $350,000. The property has been heretofore valued at $500,000.

The house is one of the most splendidly furnished private residences in the United States, and contains one of the finest private art galleries in the country.

None of the contents will be acquired with the property by Mr. Bixby except the organ in the art gallery.

Mr. Bixby is reported to be many times a millionaire. He is president of the American Car and Foundry Co. and a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

The transaction has been handled by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and the Walker-Brookings Co., with which Harold Kauffman, a son of the late John W. Kauffman, is connected.

Mr. Bixby will remove from his own magnificent home at 13 Portland place and occupy the property he has purchased.

The Kauffman property has several times been reported sold to Adolphus Busch. Mr. Busch is known to have fancied the place and had negotiated for it.

RUSSIAN SHIPS
REACH TANGIER

Part of Rojestvensky's Fleet Escapes Beresford's Patrol Squadron.

TANGIER, Morocco, Oct. 29.—Three Russian men-of-war are in the bay. They are accompanied by a collier.

This portion of the fleet is supposed to have gone directly to Tangier without stopping at Vigo, but may be a portion of the division which put into Brest on the evening following the publication of the North Sea battle with spooks.

The Russian officers say they will remain here about a week. It is rumored that they will remain at Tangier until the inquiry into the North Sea incident is ended.

GEISHA GIRLS TO TESTIFY

Immigration Inspector Overruled in His Refusal to Admit Them as Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—An inquiry now being conducted by Inspector Dunn of the immigration service into the question of whether the 14 geisha girls brought to the St. Louis Exposition to work in one of the concessions there, are violators of the alien contract labor law, is held by the department of commerce and labor to be a judicial process and not merely an investigation by the inspector. Inspector Dunn maintained that he was not conducting a judicial process and, therefore, refused the request of the attorneys for the geisha girls to cross-examine them.

The hearing of the case was adjourned temporarily while the question raised was referred to the immigration authorities here. Inspector Dunn has been informed by the government officials that the girls have a right to be represented by counsel and that, in all essential respects, the investigation being made is a judicial process. The hearing will proceed, instead, on this basis.

Writes to Friend That He Did Not Jump From Window of Moving Car.

GOT OUT AT A STATION

Enters a Few More Denials to Charges That Are Laid Against Him.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Alonzo Whiteman, who was arrested recently in St. Louis and escaped from detectives while being taken to Buffalo, has written a letter to A. O. Bunnell of Danville, N. Y.—Whiteman's former home—denying that he escaped from the detectives through a car window at Dunkirk, N. Y. He says:

"When I took French leave of the detectives at Dunkirk, the cars were standing on the track. When I got off the train not a wheel had commenced to move and I did not jump through the window. As soon as the train started I walked to the Erie Hotel, which adjoins the depot, registered as J. E. Henson, Hornellville, took a room and went to bed. The detectives came back two or three hours later and slept under the same roof. I was called early in the morning and left for parts unknown."

He says he did not register at the Jefferson Hotel at St. Louis under an assumed name and that he did not have a check for $200 and rubber stamps in his possession, as alleged. He says he was the guest for over a week in St. Louis of Frank H. Brown, formerly of Danville, now with the Mississippi Trust Co.

Whiteman says he made $500 on the rise on wheat last spring. He grows poetic and says: "Judge not that ye be not judged."

He adds: "For three years I have lived quietly at home and have seldom been out of town. For more than a year when anyone was arrested the Pinkertons have given out that the man was a member of the Whiteman-Knox gang. I have not seen Knox for years. As to the charge made against me in Buffalo in connection with a forged draft, it is unequalled folly. When I get ready to return I will vanish into thin air. If tried I will be acquitted."

GIRL'S EFFORTS TO SAVE MOTHER VAIN

Mrs. Mary Delabar Fatally Burned by Explosion of Gasoline in Lamp.

Mrs. Mary L. Delabar, wife of Dr. C. A. Delabar, is dead, and her daughter, Miss Pearl, aged 22, is suffering from severe burns as the result of an explosion of a kerosene lamp filled with gasoline at the family home, 202 Pine street, Friday evening.

The daughter was burned trying to throw a tablecloth over her mother and another the flames.

Mrs. Delabar lived but five minutes after the explosion. She went into the cellar and mistook the gasoline can for the kerosene can. She filled a lamp with the gasoline and lighted it to return upstairs. The lamp exploded in her face, and, when Miss Delabar rushed down in response to her screams, she found her mother's dress in flames. With rare presence of mind the daughter threw a tablecloth about her mother and extinguished the flames, but too late to save her mother's life.

The daughter's burns are not considered dangerous.

Mrs. Delabar was 47 years of age and leaves three children. The family has resided in St. Louis thirty years.

MAY STOP SULLIVAN FIGHT.

Unless Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan resigns his position as boxing instructor of the Missouri Athletic club he will be unable to engage in a return battle with Abe Attell at the West End club in November.

The board of athletic directors of that institution passed resolutions Friday afternoon preventing all employees of the club from participating in professional athletic events.

Sullivan has announced that he would be willing to fight Attell before Nov. 23.

MAN WINS IN MID-AIR RACE
WITH FLAMES

Broadway Crowd Cheers Ellsworth Adams, as He Leaps Through Space to Safety, Eighty Feet Above the Street.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE
WRECKS BROADWAY MUSEE

Three Men Narrowly Escape With Lives—Entire Business Block Threatened—Damage to Building and Contents $40,000.

With flames encompassing him, Ellsworth Adams, treasurer of the Broadway Musee, at 312 Broadway, made a sensational escape during a fire which wrecked the interior of that building at 6:15 o'clock this morning.

The Broadway Musee was a fire from top to bottom, every window belching smoke and flames. Robert A. Lychou, a professional nurse, had staggered down the stairs from the second floor bearing in his arms the limp figure of William G. Heck, manager of the house, who is an invalid. "Adams!" cried Lychou to the firemen, when he reached the sidewalk. "He is on the fourth floor!"

The firemen knew that the fourth and fifth stories were full of fire, but they ran for their ladders.

At that moment a man in his nightshirt appeared at the window on the fourth floor of the building. Flame burst out from the window as about him as he opened the window.

The big crowd across the street saw him crawl slowly out upon the narrow cornice and look down into the street. The flames were chasing him hard, licking at him with angry tongues and the smoke swirled about him, now and then hiding him from view.

The crowd watched him with fascinated horror as he arose from his hands and knees and stood, his back against the building.

He made a gesture to those below, and a hundred hands waved him back and a hundred throats yelled "Don't jump!"

Adams called something back, and then a cloud of smoke enveloped him and he was lost to view.

The heart of everyone in the street tightened for a moment, for all believed that the man on the ledge could not much longer withstand the fury of the flames about him.

When the smoke blew away Adams was seen again on his hands and knees, crawling slowly along the cornice toward the south. He had come out of the north window and there were two other windows in the building between him and the cornice of the building next south, occupied by the People's Credit Clothing Co.

Each window of the Musee building was as the open door of a fiery furnace from which poured long fires of flame in intermittent gusts.

At the first window Adams was again lost to the sight of the crowd below. For several moments they awaited breathless for his reappearance. Escape seemed impossible.

But he reappeared on the other side at last, and the crowd yelled like mad and shouted, "Good boy!" "Keep it up!" "You're all right!" and other encouragements.

The situation of Adams was now twice perilous. Before him the street, four stories down, behind him the blazing pit within the building.

He had come to the jumping-off place. Between the cornice on which he stood and the nearest support on the next building was an open space of about five feet, without a foothold.

The people in the street wondered why he did not go on, and exclaimed impatiently at his delay.

Then the people in the street saw the most thrilling spectacle of their lives. Adams suddenly threw himself forward across the space between his foothold and the corner of a big sign that bore the legend, "We Trust the People." His hands caught it, and fear of flame behind and love of life before him lent him both courage and strength. There was a quick scramble and in an instant the crowd saw that as by some magic he had saved himself. It had been done too quickly for their comprehension.

What a yell went up! It filled the street and was heard for a block around. The crowd saw Adams dash open a window and disappear, and a great sigh of relief escaped them. They had witnessed a bit of thrilling melodrama not down on the bills.

Inside Adams lay for awhile panting from the smoke and his exertions, but the cold had penetrated his scanty covering and he sought for and appropriated a pair of trousers and a coat from the stock. He found his way out of the room in which he was and descended to the first floor, where his exit was barred by the locked front doors. He beat upon the glass until he attracted the attention of the firemen, who broke the door open with an ax and released him. He was still in his bare feet.

BRINGS HIM DEATH

Worry Over Pocketbook Which He Found Causes Man to End His Life.

Made melancholy by insinuations as to his honesty in not returning a pocketbook containing $5 to its owner, Gustave Schmidt, 21 years old, a baker employed by Chris Twelmeyer, shot himself through the heart in the latter's bakery at 2220 North Eleventh street in the presence of his employer, at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

The pocketbook which he had found was among his effects, inside of which was a note. "This is the pocketbook. There were six paper dollars in it," it said.

Schmidt found the pocketbook several days ago and is said to have watched the papers to see if its loss was advertised, but seeing nothing concerning it he kept the money and told his friends and relatives of the find.

Some of them are said to have twitted him about keeping money that did not belong to him without advertising for the owner and otherwise reflected on his intentions. This greatly worried him and he brooded over it until he was miserable. His relatives say his mind was affected.

Schmidt left a note saying that he had found the purse on Whitemore place while driving a bakery wagon. He also declared that he had found its owner, a customer, and returned the purse. As it was among his effects, however, it is thought that Schmidt returned the money, or the matter had weighed upon his mind to such an extent that he felt eased by saying the purse had been returned.

POST-DISPATCH
FUND IS $3,406.65

Sales of Benefit Tickets Through C. Marquard Forster Added $150 to Total Box-Office Receipts.

A final accounting of the sales of tickets for the Post-Dispatch benefit given in Music Hall Thursday afternoon for the fund to be given to the families of the detectives who sacrificed their lives last week has been made.

The total receipts amount to $3,406.65. This makes the aggregate of the Post-Dispatch Relief Fund $3,406.65.

The St. Louis Brewing Association, through C. Marquard Forster, generously purchased 100 single admission tickets at $1 each and the M. Forster Real Estate Co. subscribed for 50 more.

The Post-Dispatch Relief Fund now stands as follows:

Music Hall benefit	$2,421.50
Post-Dispatch fund, previously acknowledged	500.15

Heiress to American Made Millions Is Now Wife of English Captain.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Miss Pauline Astor, daughter of William Waldorf Astor, was married at St. Margaret's church, Westminster, today, to Captain Spencer-Clay, the bishop of London, Dr. Ingram, Canon Wilberforce and other clergy performed the ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage.

SHAVE COST $2.15;
BARBERS INDICTED

Forty-five minutes after Frank Nicholson had been charged $2.15 for a shave in a barber shop at 306 North Eighteenth street, three barbers were under indictment to answer to the charge of robbery brought against them by the grand jury.

Nicholson is from Wichita, Kan. He went to the barber shop and asked for a shave. When he got out of the chair, he says, he was presented with a bill for $2.15, and, when he refused to pay, he declares, all three of the barbers threatened to knock his "block" off.

He paid, went outside the shop and found Policeman Cuddihoe, to whom he stated the case and asked for the arrest of the barbers.

The men gave their names as Waldemar Stark, William L. Blake and George W. Brown. They were taken before Assistant Circuit Attorney Hancock, who took them before the grand jury.

Nicholson will remain in St. Louis until the case is called, he says, to testify against the barbers.

BENBOW CALLS
HIS FLIGHT OFF;
"AIR CHANGED"

Large Crowd Is Disappointed by Failure of Aeronaut to Sail After He Had Made a Positive Announcement of His Plans.

MONTANA MAN'S CONTRACT CALLS FOR DAILY FLIGHT.

Hundreds Had Paid Admission Fee of 25 Cents to Enter Enclosure When His Sudden Change of Purpose Was Made Known.

The aeronautic concourse at the World's Fair held 1000 persons this afternoon who had come to see Thomas S. Benbow sail away in his airship "The Meteor," and cheered heartily when the craft was let out of the aerodrome. The ship was in much better condition than at any of its previous ascensions.

More than a half hour was consumed in inspecting the framework and mechanism of the ship and in tightening ropes preparatory to flight.

At 2:30 Benbow caused the "Meteor" to be led back into the aerodrome, declaring the flight off. He gave as his reason change in the atmospheric conditions and a lack of gas.

Since 1:30 o'clock a crowd of people had been passing in through the gates of the concourse, paying 25 cents each to see the airship start.

At 1:30 o'clock the "Meteor" was led out of the Aerodrome to a point near the nose of the aeronautic concourse, where was groomed for its flight.

The news that Benbow was to fly at spread over the fair grounds and attracted an enormous crowd, which flocked to the enclosure. In the throng were Secretaries Stevens, Superintendent of Aeronautics Hudson and C. M. Woodward of the Washington University faculty.

STATE INTEREST NOW CENTERS IN LOCAL CAMPAIGN

Importance of St. Louis' Vote Recognized by Party Leaders Who Have Moved Battleground From Country to City.

RALLY AT COLISEUM AFTER PARADE TONIGHT

Martin W. Littleton to Be Principal Speaker—Large Audiences Greet Senator Fairbanks and Attorney Folk.

St. Louis has become the central battle point of the Missouri state campaign. It is only a short time since the party managers concluded that the vote of St. Louis would settle the result of the state election. Now things have changed. It is realized on both sides that much depends on St. Louis.

The Republican leaders privately admit that there is no possible chance for Cyrus F. Walbridge, gubernatorial nominee, to carry Missouri unless he should go out of St. Louis with a majority of 15,000 or 18,000.

It is conceded that Joseph W. Folk has captured two-thirds of the agricultural vote and in northwestern part of the state, including Kansas City, he will defeat Walbridge by two to one.

Evidence of the activity prevailing in the republican and democratic camps to bring out the vote was manifest Monday night, when an aggregate of 25,000 persons attended the various political rallies throughout the city.

Tonight the spellbinders will go to it again. The principal event will be that staged under the auspices of the Jefferson Club at the Coliseum, Fourteenth and Locust street.

Mr. Hawes is counting on an attendance of 12,000. Preceding the meeting there will be a parade, in which all the democratic leaders of the city will participate. Ben J. Kirk has been appointed grand marshal.

Harry J. Hodnett assistant grand marshal.

Red Lights of the Campaign.
There will be plenty of red lights—the red of the republican and the blue of the democratic—open bands of music and cheering thousands to enliven the evening.

The parade will proceed west on Chestnut street, a seventh street to Fourteenth street, south on street to Jefferson avenue, north on street to Franklin avenue, east on Franklin avenue to Twelfth street, south on Twelfth street to Chestnut street, west on Chestnut street to Locust street, and thence to the north entrance.

MAN WINS IN FIRE-ARM RACE WITH FLAMES

and friends who had gathered went out and bought shoes, stockings and hat for him.

The fire which threatened the destruction of the entire block bounded by Broadway, Locust, Fourth and Olive streets at 6:15 o'clock Saturday morning, started in the building at 312 N. Broadway, occupied by the Broadway Museum, an amusement enterprise including a vaudeville theater.

Buildings in the immediate vicinity, which at first it seemed would be destroyed, were the Security building 11 stories high, and two five-story buildings on Fourth street, occupied by the Rice Cigar Co., and the C. H. Walker Realty Co. The latter building was unoccupied above the first floor. All these buildings caught fire, but were quickly extinguished.

According to a statement by Chief Swingley, the total loss will not exceed $120,000, and is fully covered by insurance.

In the front of the second floor, Will G. Heck, manager of the Museum, was asleep, dozing in the chair at his side was Robert A. Lychou, a professional nurse, of 533 Eighteenth street. Heck was just recovering from injuries received in a street car collision Sept. 22. Lychou was nursing him.

The nurse was first awakened by the smoke and sparks falling about him. Throwing the patient over his shoulder, Lychou made a dash for the stairway, which he gained in safety and down which he staggered. It would have been almost a phenomenal feat for him to have escaped had he been alone, and it was a still greater one for him to carry the injured man with him.

Reaching the front door they found it locked, and it was only by breaking open the door that they escaped.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. No one has offered any solution except defective electric wiring. Chief Swingley is of the opinion the fire started on the stage on the second floor, and that it burned quickly upward through the other floors.

It is considered strange that the flames were not noticed earlier by someone on the street, as the fire must have been burning fiercely for at least ten minutes before discovery.

The fire was out at 9:15 o'clock, having burned exactly three hours.

The Broadway Museum, a large company No. 22, of 133 Compton avenue, and fireman James Langwith of No. 4 truck of 287 North Market street, were struck by a shower of falling glass while at work in the alley in the rear of the fire. Lieut. Burke suffered three injuries, three fingers of his right hand being nearly severed by the glass.

The tendons of Langwith's right hand were cut. Both men were taken to the dispensary, where their injuries were treated. The police report of the estimated damage to the Broadway Museum is $100,000. The Broadway Museum is owned by a woman who lives in Europe. It is valued at $180,000.

The Broadway Museum belongs to the Midland Machine Co., of Chicago, N. E. The manager, states that the loss to the company will be between $100,000 and $150,000.

The contents of the building, with the exception of the penny-slot machines on the first floor, which were badly damaged by water, are a total loss. The contents of the theater, including the stage, and the contents of the stage, are insured for $35,000.

The building insured for $25,000 and the contents for $11,000.

REFORM WAVE TROUBLESOME
Buffalo Auditor Balks at Tips and Useless Employment of Postal Cards.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Economy in its strictest form has attacked city and county departments here since the indictment of seven aldermen for boodling. County Auditor Starn today objected to auditing an account containing as item of two 50-cent tips paid by Assistant District Attorney Abbott to railroad porters on a journey on county business.

The auditor said a quarter to a half a cent, except when a man is on a honey-moon.

A counter accusation of wastefulness was brought against the county auditor for mailing a notice on a postal card, at the cost of one cent, to a man having an office on the floor below the auditor's room.

The auditor should have walked down one night and saved the county a cent.

BRIDE WAS HIS LEGAL WIFE.
Couple Who Lost Certificate Have Second Marriage Ceremony.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 28.—A peculiar wedding which was celebrated this week at Lincoln attracted much attention in central Illinois. Notwithstanding the fact that the couple had been man and wife for six years, it was necessary that they should remarry in order to validate an invalid marriage.

The couple are John and Mary Groh. They were married in Hungary and while on the Atlantic coast, where they were engaged in business, they were married again. The ceremony was performed at the home in Lincoln.

BRIDE WHOSE ROMANCE HAD BEGINNING ON HALLOWEEN.

MISS VELMA LANE.

WON COLLEGE BELL AND COLLEGE BELLE

Now Wedding Bells Ring for Pair Who Met in Halloween Frank.

COUPID REWARDED FRANK
He Took Down Landmark of Campus and Fair Ones Awaited His Coming.

In a Halloween prank began the romance of Walter B. Tietzert and Miss Velma Lane. Mr. Tietzert captured the college bell, in conformity to time-honored custom, and his heart was captured the same night by the college belle, in conformity to custom just as time-honored.

They were married, these two, Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's father, Dr. J. H. Lane, at Medora, Ill. The attachment which led up to the wedding began on a Halloween night several years ago at Blackburn University, Carlinville, Ill., where both were students.

It is a time honored custom at Blackburn that each Halloween night the old college bell shall be removed from its fastenings and placed in such a condition that it cannot be rung the following morning.

One year Mr. Tietzert was the leader, and at the risk of a fall, climbed the bell rope and removed the bell from its fastenings. He was accompanied by several other young men.

The feat was accomplished without awakening a watchman, who was sleeping below within a few feet of the base of the bell tower.

Upon leaving the building, the young men secretly went to a room in the college, in which several young ladies, also according to custom, had arranged a little banquet for the heroes.

Miss Lane was a leader in this function. At the little banquet she first became acquainted with the tall, young student. There was an invitation to call in the very near future. From that time on, there were frequent meetings on the campus and long walks on the streets.

There came an end to college days and college pranks and college courtships. The young man engaged in newspaper work in St. Louis, and a year ago went to Madison to assume the control of the Medora News, a newspaper formerly conducted by his father, C. W. Tietzert.

There had been no wavering of the affection which each had had for the other since that Halloween night, and as soon as Mr. Tietzert was settled in Medora, his friends had been watching and waiting.

They never did find out when it was going to take place. The ceremony was performed quietly Wednesday night and the couple, with their friends, as there had been on that Halloween night, left the house and boarded a train for the South, where they will spend two weeks, returning to St. Louis for a visit to the bride's father.

Upon the return a reception for the couple will be given by the parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tietzert, assisted by Mrs. B. H. Bowman of Jerseyville, Ill.

WITHOUT SALOONS OR POLICE.
Illinois City Aldermen Get Into Queer Tangle Over Appointment.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
STERLING, Ill., Oct. 28.—The license and no license aldermen of Geneseo have locked horns over the appointment of an alderman to fill a vacancy in the first ward. The temperance men have the majority. The license men bolted the Council rather than elect another temperance man. As saloon licenses expire Tuesday, the saloons will have to close as a full vote is needed on the license bond.

The police force tendered their resignations last night, and as the aldermen refuse to act, the members will quit. It now seems the city will be without both saloons and police until the matter is settled in court.

BEER WAGON STRUCK BY CAR.
Driver and Motorman Injured at Twelfth Street Bridge.

A collision between a Bellefontaine avenue division car and a beer wagon of the L. Over Brewing Co. at the north approach of the Twelfth street bridge at 5 o'clock Saturday morning resulted in the injury of Louis Jones, motorman, and Fred Friedlander, driver. Friedlander was taken to the City Hospital with a fractured thigh and Jones was cared for by the Transit company. The wagon was thrown forty feet and the driver hurled to the ground. Neither man is seriously injured. Friedlander was taken to St. Louis.

ILLINOIS, CALIFORNIA AND OHIO DOUBTFUL

All Other Supposed-to-Be Uncertain States Will Be in the Democratic Column, Says Urey Woodson for the Democratic Committee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Urey Woodson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, who said he was speaking for the national committee, today predicted the overwhelming election of Judge Parker to the Presidency. He predicted that all the doubtful states will be Democratic, and that some states, called Republican, will be and are doubtful.

Secretary Woodson said: "I have every confidence that Judge Parker will be elected. I have been here 100 days now and I am ready to announce from observation and what we have received that Parker is elected."

"All the doubtful states, so-called, will be in the Democratic column and many of the states called purely Republican are now in the doubtful column."

"We will carry New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana, Maryland, West Virginia, Idaho, Colorado, Utah and Nevada. In other words all the doubtful states are for us and for Judge Parker's election."

"Illinois is doubtful. Ohio is even doubtful. The big men who controlled that state are now dead. The Republicans assume they are going to win there, but we hear they might lose. Even California has sent good reports to us and we are hopeful of even carrying that state."

"Maryland is certainly as Democratic as Kentucky; West Virginia is as sure as Maryland."

Secretary Woodson said Chairman Tamm will be here surely by Monday night.

HE JUST COULDN'T KEEP AWAKE—THUD!

Fall and Numerous Injuries Follow Sleep Induced by Physical Affliction.

Frank Burns, 55 years old, is at the City Hospital suffering from a broken rib, a contused eye and a lacerated ear, for which he blames his extraordinary propensity for sleep, and his consequent fall from the loft of a barn.

Burns, when he does not sleep elsewhere, lives at Fourth street and Clark avenue. But he loves to sleep and admits that when a spell takes him he picks out the nearest suitable place and dozes off.

Friday night Burns says he was out rather late, and as he was returning home, near Jefferson and Geyer avenues, he became suddenly and overwhelmingly sleepy.

Morpheus pulled and tugged at him with heavy hands, and he prepared to submit. With circumspect eye he gazed around and picked out a barn.

Picking out a bundle of hay for a pillow, after crawling to the loft of the barn, Burns laid down and was asleep almost instantly.

At 4 o'clock Saturday morning he jumped up and walked through a window of the barn and fell to the ground while still asleep. He landed on his head and side and awoke. Realizing his plight, Burns struggled to Geyer and Jefferson avenues and called a policeman to assist him.

Physicians say Burns is suffering from pressure on the optic nerves, which induces sleep, practically irresistible.

Veteran Printer Dead.
The funeral of William G. Waite, 55 years old, died Friday evening, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 407 Garfield avenue. Mr. Waite had lived in St. Louis practically all his life, the greater part of which he has spent as a printer. He leaves a widow.

PASTOR, HUSBAND OF DR. FLOWER IS ST. LOUISAN DROWNS
Fugitive New York Broker Is Scheming to Float New Mexican Mines.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 28.—Rev. George Frederick Kettell, former assistant rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Baltimore, who was barred from a charge at Palmyra, N. J., by Bishop Scarborough, because he married the divorced wife of Rev. Clarence Frankel of St. Louis, drowned at Sparrows Point, about 10 miles from this city. Whether accidental or intentional is unknown. The body has not been recovered.

Immediately after the marriage Mr. Kettell resigned his Baltimore charge and subsequently was accepted by the congregation at Palmyra.

After a long court case presented his letter of dismissal from Bishop Paret of Maryland to Bishop Scarborough of New Jersey, the latter emphatically declined to accept him, and ordered his dismissal from the Palmyra church.

Then the young rector presented his letter of dismissal from Bishop Paret of Maryland to Bishop Scarborough of New Jersey, the latter emphatically declined to accept him, and ordered his dismissal from the Palmyra church.

Mr. Kettell said he intended to take a row on the river, despite the fact that the temperature was near the freezing point. When about 50 yards from shore, the machine observer noticed him struggling in the water and saw him drown before aid could be rendered.

A watchman declared he saw Mr. Kettell throw an oar overboard and the boat deliberately dive overboard and at the same time attempt to kick the boat away from him.

Others on shore, however, are of the opinion that the rector lost an oar and drowned in trying to recover it. He was 35 years old.

MRS. FOXHALL KEENE LEAVES HUSBAND

Financial Troubles of New York Society Sportsman Blamed for Separation.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Foxhall K. Keene has left her husband and is living with her father, Frederick Lawrence, in his magnificent country home at Bayville, L. I. The separation is the result of a disagreement which Mrs. Keene had with her husband more than a month ago. Ten days ago Mrs. Keene packed her belongings and removed to her parents' house, where she has lived since.

The members of the Meadowbrook and Rockaway Hunt Clubs, of which Mr. and Mrs. Keene were members, have for weeks discussed the reported separation, but no one knew how serious matters were until Mrs. Keene went to her father's home.

Trouble began in the Keene household when the Talbot J. Taylor firm of brokers failed. Mr. Keene was a special partner in this concern, and it was stated at the time that he had suffered great financial loss.

Since then Mr. Keene has been sued several times, the servants on Mr. Keene's place at Westbury even sued for their wages. From the dashing leader of the fashionable Long Island hunt clubs, Mr. Keene gradually withdrew and finally came to participate in little in the social gatherings and sportsman events which were arranged.

The resignation of Mr. Keene from the Meadowbrook Hunt Club was followed by the club's demand that Mr. Keene pay a bill of $200, and the latter disagreed with them upon the amount of the bill.

The success of a cross-country rider, golfer, clubman and leader of society, who had always entered heart and soul in his sports, was shattered by the financial disaster which had befallen him. Mrs. Keene participated in all of these sports, and often went without her husband.

POSITIVE WAY OF PROPOSING
Mrs. Johnson Repudiates Marriage Contract Signed While Locked in Her Studio.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Lottie Johnson, an artist, caused the arrest of Lindon Erwin, organizer for the Patriotic League, on a charge of holding her prisoner in her studio until she signed a contract agreeing to marry him. He was bound over to keep the peace.

Mrs. Johnson alleged that Erwin entered her studio on business connected with the order that he represents, but suddenly seemed to become infatuated with her. She expostulated and tried to reason with him, but he refused to listen. Finally she demanded that he sign a contract to marry her.

She was in mortal fear of her life, she said, and when she became convinced that the signing of the contract was the only way in which he could be induced to leave, she signed it. The contract was drawn up within a few moments after he left the studio she caused his arrest.

VICTIM'S BROTHER IS UNRELENTING

Myrtle Eberly Will Be Prosecuted, Declares Brother of Man Whom She Killed.

Myrtle Eberly, the 17-year-old slayer of Thomas Lane, alias Edward Leonard, whom she charged with breaking a promise to marry her, appeared in the Court of Criminal Correction Saturday morning, accompanied by her attorney, Charles F. Johnson, and her bondsman. She waived examination, and her case will be taken up by the grand jury next Tuesday. The charge of perjury against Mary Craig, who it is charged, posed as the half-sister of Lane, and claimed his property, will also be taken up by the grand jury at that time.

The youthful slayer of Lane looked a mere child in court. She did not even look her 17 years. She was childishly dressed, wearing a blue Tam O'Shanter and having her hair in long braids.

James Lane, brother of the dead man, who has come here from Staten Island, where he is the proprietor of a hotel, was also in court. He will remain here until his brother's side of the killing is fully presented, whatever the cost in money or time. Lane stated his belief that the protectors of the girl were playing for delay in the hope that he would return to his home in the East.

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS SAY STATE IS DEBATABLE.
SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 28.—Chairman Hanna of the Republican state committee, Collector of Customs Stone, Mayor Timanus and Gen. Agnew went to New York Tuesday to make a campaign for the state and to see Senator Scott and Treasurer Blais, and returned well pleased with the result of their visit. Chairman Hanna said:

"Mr. Cortelyou was not there, but we saw and talked with the others in charge, including Senator Scott, and believe we have effectually dispelled the idea that Maryland belongs to the Democrats. We have convinced the committee that instead of being lost it is debatable territory and should receive every assistance."

"Maryland, from my point of view, is close, and this election will show it. I think we will surely carry four congressional districts, even though the electoral vote may go against us, which I don't concede."

FIRE IMPERILS GUESTS OF HOTEL

World's Fair Hotel on North Broadway Threatened by Blaze.

Guests of the World's Fair Hotel, 119 and 121 North Broadway, were aroused last night at 10:30 o'clock by the cry of fire and escaped to the street before flames reached the building.

The fire originated in the People's ticket office, 114 North Broadway, and spread to the A. B. C. saloon, which was completely gutted.

There were but five guests at the World's Fair Hotel in their rooms at the time, and these were escorted to the street by Detectives Fianan and Cremin. Dr. G. H. Smith, his wife and their daughter, Mrs. Eugene and her two children, Raymond, aged 12, and Lillian, aged 10, had retired and as soon as fire was discovered in the adjoining building Night Clerk H. E. Appling awoke them and they escaped to the street unharmed.

The fire is thought to be of incendiary origin and the arrest of Edward Ginter, porter at the People's ticket office, was made immediately after the discovery of flames. The loss is about $200,000. Ginter was released this morning because of insufficient evidence against him.

WATERBURY POSTAL POLL FORECASTS CLOSE RESULT.
SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 28.—A postal card canvass of 500 voters taken at random in this city by the World correspondent brought 57 replies, of which 31 were for Parker and 44 for Roosevelt.

The significant fact appears from the returns that only four of the 57 voters had changed from Bryan (Dem.) to Roosevelt (Rep.), while 10 of the 57 say they voted for McKinley (Rep.) in 1900, but they vote for Parker this year.

As a straw this postal card canvass, like similar tests in Bridgeport and New London, points to a great gain in the Democratic vote and indicates that Connecticut may be very close.

THE PURSUIT OF RICHES

For the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. His excellent advice, given for Mr. Hennessey's benefit, may be read profitably by everybody.

On the subject of riches, the philosopher is a fatalist, declaring "if ye're born to be rich, ye'll be rich, an' if ye're born to be poor ye'll be poor." But, by way of consolation, he concludes:

"No, Hinnissy, you an' I, me frind, was not out out be Provdyince to be millionaires. If ye had nawthin' but money, ye'd have nawthin' but money—ye can't ate it, slape it, dhrink it or carry it away with ye. Ye've got a lot iv things that McMullin hasn't got. CHARGES POSTPONE DIPLOMAT'S WEDDING

Anonymous Writer Charges Senor Corea of Nicaragua Has Wife in Home Country.

FIANCEE BELIEVES IN HIM

Message Received by Macon's Mayor Was Read by Him in Council Meeting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 MAISON, Ga., Oct. 28.—The marriage of Senor Luis F. Corea, Nicaraguan minister to the United States and Mrs. Irah Dunlap Jordan of Macon, which was to have been a prominent social event the latter part of November, has been indefinitely postponed at the earnest solicitation. It is said, of Senor Corea himself.

The postponement is the outcome of a letter written anonymously from Washington to Mayor Bridges Smith of Macon, in which the writer alleges that Don Luis Corea is an adventurer, without resources other than the insignificant salary on which he maintains his establishment in Washington. The writer says, further, that Corea already has one wife and four children, and that his purpose in marrying Mrs. Irah Dunlap Jordan is to secure her fortune, which is large. Mayor Smith turned the letter over to the city council in open session, and its reading created a sensation in Macon, where Mrs. Jordan has lived all her life. It finally found its way into the hands of a brother of Mrs. Jordan, and he at once forwarded it to the Nicaraguan minister, with the result that the marriage has been indefinitely postponed.

TO PIPE NATURAL GAS FROM KANSAS

Application Made to City Council for Lighting and Heating Franchise.

If expectations of a company applying for a franchise are realized, St. Louis before long may be able to read their evening papers by natural gas light while toasting their toes before a natural gas fire.

The Interstate Natural Gas & Fuel Co., composed of non-residents, proposes to pipe natural gas to the city from the gas belt of southeast Kansas for lighting and fuel purposes. The bill to authorize the company to do business in the city for 50 years was introduced in the city council Friday evening by President Joseph L. Hornsby. In consideration of the franchise the company offers to pay the city a per cent of gross receipts to furnish gas to municipal buildings for lighting free of cost and to furnish gas in streets in which the company has gas mains at a cost not to exceed $5 a year.

The rate to consumers is to be 40 to 50 cents a thousand cubic feet, according to amount used. The company offers a bond of $25,000 to guarantee faithful performance of the provisions of the franchise. Mr. Hornsby said Saturday: "I am assured that the new franchise for the city means business and is capable of doing what they propose to do. They have a similar arrangement in Kansas City. The project seems feasible. Natural gas is now being piped from Indiana to Chicago for commercial purposes. Understand it is the purpose to pipe to St. Louis from the southern Kansas. I am not personally interested in the project."

NEW THOUGHT SESSION ENDS

Business Is Concluded; But Delegates Remain in St. Louis to Visit World's Fair.

Many delegates to the New Thought convention, which concluded business at Friday night's session in the east nave of the Exposition building, Thirteenth and Olive streets, will remain in St. Louis for several days attending the World's Fair. Delegates pronounce the convention just closed one of the most successful since the organization was formed. Article 3 of the constitution underwent a slight change at Friday's session. Relating to the purposes of the organization, it now reads: "To aid human development through unfolding of the consciousness of the unity of life, and to secure rightful liberty in all matters appertaining to education along the lines proposed." Paul Tyler, W. P. Colville and Mrs. Ursula N. Gesterfeld addressed the night session. Henry Horacio Brown of San Francisco was elected president; Dr. D. L. Sullivan of Kansas City vice-president; Rev. John D. Perrin of St. Louis, secretary, and Dr. J. W. Winkley of Boston, treasurer.

WATSON TRIAL FOR JAN. 23.

NEW LONDON, Mo., Oct. 28.—The trial of Dr. Jones Watson, charged with the murder of his wife, Amanda Watson, was continued until Jan. 23 at the request of the state. Dr. Watson stated that he was not seeking delay, but wanted trial as soon as possible. The state was not willing to stand on the information filed at first, charging that the death of Mrs. Watson was due to morphine poisoning, and alleged in the amended information that death resulted from causes unknown. The filing of the amended information by the state abandoned the former theory of the cause of death of Mrs. Watson and alleging an unknown cause of death, rendered it impossible to try the case at this term, and the judge continued the case until Jan. 23.

MISSOURIAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

LENORE, Id., Oct. 28.—Edward Rauscher of Joplin, Mo., who was on his way to be married, was thrown from a train here and killed.

He was to have been married today at Orofino, Wash., to Lottie Snyder, the daughter of a farmer, living there. He had been to Lewiston for a marriage license and was returning to Orofino. He alighted while the train was taking water at Lenore and did not start to get on until the train was again in motion. Losing his footing, he fell against the side of the car and was hurled backward. His head struck some rocks, breaking his skull, and he died in a few minutes.

CONGRESS TO BE MADE PERMANENT

Fifty Members to Promote Trans-Mississippi Commercial Interests.

A permanent organization of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, the purpose of which is to foster the interests of both capital and labor and to promote general welfare of the country, is the result of the sessions of the congress which have just closed at the World's Fair for the past week.

At the last session Friday 50 members were enrolled in a few minutes and delegates from each of the transmississippi states promised members to the congress. The report of the committee on resolutions occupied the greater part of the time, and all of the more than thirty resolutions, with the exception of two, which dealt with political questions, were passed. Chief among them are the recommendations to Congress for the improvement of the Mississippi from the Ohio river to Minneapolis, and the improvement of the Galveston harbor.

The congress recommended that a naval station be erected on the Pacific coast for the better protection of public and commerce along the coast. San Diego was named as a suitable place for the station. Other resolutions favor the passage of a law amending the interstate commerce act, giving the commission power to make changes and put them in operation within 30 days when complaints are made. A national survey of Alaska and the Indian territories as joined in one state is recommended. A sectional survey of Alaska and a recommendation of homestead laws granting 320 acres each to United States citizens for homes was the subject of a resolution.

The only reference to capital and labor in the resolutions is a clause wherein is favored "the union of labor and the combination of capital proper means to advance the public good." The resolution, however, condemned "any and all acts of labor combined for the purpose of abridging the natural rights of man."

The enforcement of the Sherman act of 1890 is recommended. The appointment of a committee to investigate the arbitration laws of New Zealand was recommended; public road improvement was urged; thorough organization of the consular service asked, and a department of mines and mining in the United States cabinet asked. Secretary A. F. Francis was selected to discriminate between the public and labor and withheld in the speech on capital and labor made by F. H. Thurber of New York. Gov. John G. Brady of Alaska made the concluding speech before the congress. His efforts were instrumental in the passage of the Alaska resolutions.

HOME MISSION DAY AT FAIR.

Centennial Anniversary of Mission Work in Louisiana Celebrated.

The celebration of Home Mission Day at the World's Fair was begun Saturday in Festival Hall. The celebration was in commemoration of the one hundred anniversary of the establishment of home mission work in the Louisiana Purchase territory.

The program today opened with music, scripture reading and a prayer, followed by the welcome of the former territory. The introductory remarks were made by Rev. Charles L. Thompson, chairman of the committee on arrangements. A historical address, describing the progress of mission work in the Louisiana Purchase territory, was given by Rev. A. B. Storms, president of the Iowa college of agriculture and mechanical arts. Addresses also were made by Rev. J. S. Nicoll, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of St. Louis; Rev. D. S. Tuttle, bishop of Missouri; and George Gates, president of the Pomona, Cal., college.

EXPERT ACCOUNTANT RESIGNS.

Wm. Tuttle Quits Place in World's Fair Admissions Department.

William Tuttle, expert accountant, who has worked many changes in the department of admissions since coming to the World's Fair, last June, has resigned, and will be succeeded by Accountant Gray, who has connected with the fair since Mr. Tuttle is employed by a same firm by which Mr. Tuttle is employed. Mr. Tuttle, immediately upon assuming his position at the fair, began making sweeping changes, including an entire reorganization of the pass issuing system. He revoked a large number of passes. He also caused a reduction to be made in the salaries of the employees of the admissions department. He had charge of the recent revalidation of the passes issued. Mr. Tuttle's position has been a difficult one. There has frequently been a lack of harmony between the accountant and the chief of the department. It is said.

HIGH OFFICIALS' CLUBS RAISED

Famous Chevy Chase Loses Liquors and Washington Circles Are Agitated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The Chevy Chase Club, which is one of the leading social clubs of the capital and is located in Montgomery County, Maryland, was raided by Sheriff Bradley of that county and a strong force of deputies. The anti-saloon league claims the credit of getting up the raid.

The leading influence against the club is said to be the membership of St. John's Church. These churchmen for months complained that the golf players connected with the club have been hiring caddies Sundays and been breaking up some of their Sunday school classes. Finally the golfers agreed to act as their own caddies.

But this victory served only to what the zeal of the anti-saloon league, and a movement was begun to raid the club, whose membership includes several Supreme court judges, nearly the whole diplomatic corps, many senators and representatives, and numerous other prominent people in social and political life. The sheriff carried off all the liquors he could find in the refrigerator room and elsewhere, amounting in value to about $200. There was, however, something over $1200 worth of good, mellow liquor in the cellar, and when the sheriff departed and teams were employed by the club members to haul it over the line into the District of Columbia. Under the law in Montgomery County it is said that the sheriff has the power to seize intoxicating liquors wherever he may find them in his jurisdiction. The club has never made any secret of its conventions in the way of drinking. J. F. Loring, chairman of the house committee of the club, said that also and would be settled speedily and that the club would not be forced to abandon its organization.

PROMINENT CLERGYMEN SPEAK

Interdenominational Home Convention Will Attract Many Ministers.

Many ministers of prominence will attend the Interdenominational Home convention which begins sessions in Festival Hall at the World's Fair Saturday afternoon. The second and last session will be held Monday morning. Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D. D., of New York is chairman of the committee on arrangements and will preside at this afternoon's meeting. President Francis will come the delegates and Mr. Thompson will read the address. Addresses will be made by Rev. A. B. Storms, president of the Iowa Presbyterian church, St. Louis; Right Rev. D. S. Tuttle, bishop of Missouri; Dr. Cyrus Northrop, LL. D., president of the University of Minnesota. Many other noted ministers will speak at Monday's meeting.

WENT TO SLEEP IN CHURCH

That Was Two Weeks Ago and He Has Not Awakened.

GARDNER, Ill., Oct. 28.—James Burns is astonishing the people of this village by a long and continuous sleep. He went to church two weeks ago, walked part of the way up the aisle, stopped, and after staring into vacancy for a few minutes, retraced his steps and went home. He has not awoken since, and is sleeping peacefully in his bed. He is a well-known and respected citizen of the village.

TO MOVE RELIGIOUS COLLEGE.

Seminary Will Be Established Either in St. Louis or Chicago.

Although business sessions of the Reformed Church Synod at Maple Avenue Reformed Church are ended, the greater part of the delegates remained in the city, and this morning went to the World's Fair to attend the mission day exercises. Sunday there will be special services at the Maple Avenue church. One of the most important matters taken up by the synod was the establishment of a theological seminary either in St. Louis or Chicago. The seminary is now located at Tiffin, O., but the synod favors moving it further west. Many of the delegates favor the location of the seminary in St. Louis, while others favor Chicago. The matter was left in the hands of a committee to report to the synod at its next meeting. A resolution was passed proposing an alliance of all Reformed churches holding a Presbyterian form of government. A banquet was tendered the delegates Friday evening at 9:30 o'clock.

PHILIPPINE CAPTAIN RESIGNS.

Action Follows Removal of Guard After Prisoner Escaped.

Following the release of James Dent, Inspector and guard at the Philippine Exposition, the resignation of George W. Shute, captain of the Philippine Guards, who is also a deputy sheriff in St. Louis County, received a warrant for the arrest of E. V. Plucker, who was charged with the escape of the prisoner. Captain Shute, on the charge of contacting $25 worth of lumber from the reservation of the exposition. After Plucker was arrested he was placed in custody over night, who kept the prisoner at his own home over night. The following morning Plucker disappeared. The removal of Inspector Dent, and the resignation of Captain Shute have followed.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS FROM TODAY IN ST. LOUIS

BY O. B. JOYFUL

(From the Post-Dispatch of Oct. 25, 1929.)

Lindell boulevard is fuller of mudholes than Peoria, Ill. is of hotels. Years ago, when Rolla Wells was mayor of St. Louis, he tried to infuse a little civic pride into the people by lighting up Lindell boulevard as no other street in the city had ever been lighted before, yet he never succeeded in getting the mudholes filled up, and this Jonah seems to stick to that thoroughfare even to this day.

Charles W. Fairbanks, candidate for the vice-presidency on the Republican ticket, thawed out long enough to make a few warm remarks in favor of Ziegenheim and the lunar illumination of municipalities.

The big airship race will be pulled off this afternoon at 3 o'clock. There are seven entries. The odds are 2 to 5 on Dinks Porriah's air-buggy, "The Smile Perpetual," but there is a hot tip out concerning Wallace Wright's "Cabbage Leaf."

Col. John W. Peckington is preparing to celebrate Queen Victoria's birthday on a grander scale than ever. The colonel declares that he could never get onto the curves of King Edward, who has two birthdays—one actual and one official—several months apart.

Postmaster Frank Wyman, who was 52 years of age in 1904, is celebrating his 54th anniversary today. Mr. Wyman is of the opinion that the man who invented the calendar ought to be hung.

Coming! Coming! Theodore Roosevelt and his stupendous aggregation of cowboys, rough riders and Mississippi bear hunters. Positively only one week in this city, commencing next Monday.

Frank de Haas Robinson informs us that he has strong hopes that the Cardinals, who have been after the bunting for the last thirty years, will succeed in nabbing the baseball bunting next season, although they finished with the also-rans this year.

Grandpa Jake Beckley, old Uncle Jack Taylor, Dannie Rhea and other of his star players may wake up next spring, after hibernating all winter. Mr. Robinson thinks, and so do most of the honor of earning their salaries, but of bringing home the coveted rag.

Blanche Bates, the actress, is trying to break the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" record with "The Darling of the Gods," which she is now presenting for the twenty-sixth season.

"SEE," said the Society Girl, "that the Russians thought fishing vessels were torpedo boats."

"They're awfully bad guessers," said the Club Woman. "They thought the Japanese were easy. But that reminds me—did you see that a man named Gustave Michaud is searching for 'The Brains of the Nation'?" No, I don't know who he is, and I don't know just what he is trying to do. But it must be something eccentric, because it has attracted such wide attention. Mr. Brown's explanation is that the man's name shows he is half German and half French, so naturally he is constantly at war with himself. Therefore no one should be surprised by what he does.

"Well, anyhow, this man has discovered that talent grows less as one goes West. In New England, he says, there are 54 talented persons in every 100,000. In New York, 34; in Illinois, 10; in Missouri, 6, and in Colorado, 1. I have sent him my article to Mrs. Smith at San Francisco. You know her, didn't you? She was here last winter. No, I didn't like her much, either, but I thought she would be interested in it.

"Mr. Brown says the population of Missouri is 3,100,000. That means that there are only 186 talented persons in the state. Why, my dear, we know more than that number, ourselves. Well, that just shows that one seldom really knows one's acquaintances. There's Miss Sharp, for instance. You know her, too. Well, she is always talking about her writings, and I have always been so glad to introduce her. It is rather distinguished to know literary people, don't you think? She always explained that she never had anything printed because her sensitive nature shrank from notoriety, but now—Isn't it uncomfortable to have suspicion thrust on one?

"I can't understand yet why the preponderance of talented literary and artistic people are in the East, in spite of Mr. Brown's theory."

"What is that?" asked the Society Girl.

"He says the rents are cheaper there."

"But why," asked the Society Girl, "did the Russians remind you of Gustave Michaud?"

"It seems absurd," said the Club Woman, "that the Russians should not know the difference between a fishing smack and a torpedo boat. But even greater mistakes are made every day, I suppose."

THE NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

Tom Watson's First Novel.

Mr. Thomas E. Watson of Georgia, candidate for President on the People's Party ticket, has found time to write "Bethany," a story of the Old South, published this past week by the Appleton. The author has already done such creditable work in his "Life of Napoleon," "The Story of France," and "The Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," that his first appearance as a writer of fiction calls for interested attention.

Yet it doesn't seem to be fiction after all, this "Bethany" of Mr. Watson's, although it comes to the reading public in the guise of a novel. It is, rather, a volume of reminiscences of the times immediately preceding, during and closely following the civil war, as those times were known "down South." After having written the book the author frankly confesses that no effort has been made to "manufacture an intricate plot and to work out a happy conclusion," because "it is only in conventional novels that lovers invariably reach sunshine and marriage," and that his purpose is to "let what actually happened appear in the book as it happened." Therefore we must needs regard "Bethany" as a true story, more or less masked as a novel—the veracious tale of what happened to divers and sundry members of the Horton family, living near the town of Bethany in the state of Georgia, from about 1856 to the closing 60s, and how the stormy scenes of those years impressed the writer's mind.

Read from this point of view, Mr. Watson's story of the old South is quite interesting and instructive. We are made to realize just how the people of the southern states felt in that trying era and we are introduced to several famous Georgians and some Confederate generals and favored with rather intimate studies of them. Of this number Mr. Watson's pen pictures of "Bob" Toombs and "Alec" Stephens are the most convincing, the reader being brought vitally face to face with those picturesque historical figures and almost made to see them in the flesh. They and their associates in the story take the red-hot bolts of the bolters of the hour at great length, and there is a mighty thrashing of old wheat. Historically, however, this is worth while, and Mr. Watson does his work faithfully. He is loyal to southern traditions and mirrors truthfully the southern sentiment of the times. It is at many moments a pathetic presentment and one that the new generation may study to advantage, teaching them, as it does, that the South had considerable warrant in fact for those sentiments and that there are always two sides to every important question. The people of the South, the author of "Bethany" makes plain, believed very firmly in the righteousness of their course and appealed to the arbitrament of war with every confidence in the justice of the appeal.

As a true story with its characters under assumed names, "Bethany" is good reading. As a novel, it is full of faults. As a personal contribution from Mr. Watson to the literature of the civil war it is likely to receive wide notice and cause notable comment of a nature dependent upon the sympathies of the commentator. Somehow it suggests, more or less, "The Leopard's Spots" of Thomas Dixon, Jr., though without the dramatic force of Mr. Dixon's novel.

A Notable Magazine Issue.

The November number of The World's Work, which will inaugurate the fifth year of the magazine, will be an unusually significant issue. The two leading articles will be devoted to the great harvests. Mr. Isaac F. Marcosson of the staff contributes "Harvesting the Wheat," illustrated by remarkable photographs. Mr. Marcosson made an intimate investigation, traveling through the whole wheat belt. Mr. C. H. Fox's article, "The Rich Kingdom of Cotton," acutely illustrated, expounds the great southern industry. Other notable articles in this issue will be Mr. Henry Wysham Lanier's second article on life insurance, showing how the companies invest $1,000,000 a day; Miss Shaw's summing up of American schools; Durham White Stevens' comprehensive estimate of the Emperor of Japan, and John Callan O'Laughlin's article, "German and American Working-men."

Cause for Rejoicing.

There will be nothing new in ladies' hose during the approaching season—Fashion Note.

The world at times seems dark enough. Toadden and discourage one; And clouds and mists obscure the sun; And yet there comes a season when A light on the horizon breaks, And perfect joy is brought to men, Which fresher hope and life awakes; And this is one of them, for see This glad intelligence, which shows There will this season ("Ooo colored pop") be nothing new in ladies' hose.

No, nothing; not the slightest change. Will Fashion for a time decree, Nor from the good old standard range. From soft, pink heel to matter of fact, "lady" no more rhymes with "baby" than "cat" rhymes with "he-cat."

But that our modern popular song writers are not alone in this fault is shown by a peep into the works of George Peck, an English dramatist of no mean repute in his day, who had the misfortune to die in 1858.

In a scene in one of his dramas he writes:

Fair and fair, and twice so fair,

As fair as any may be;

Thy love is fair for thee alone,

And for no other lady.

It Can't Be Done.

While the origin of the con song is a matter of no great moment, it is interesting to note that the loose method of rhyming which characterizes the melodies which are critical of the colored population, even in the days of William Shakespeare.

The writer of the con song almost invariably tries to force "lady" to rhyme with "baby," whereas

"lady" no more rhymes with "baby" than "cat" rhymes with "he-cat."

It was in the year 1864 that Mr. Peck attempted to rhyme "lady" with "may be," and, unfortunately for those of us who are critical about these small matters of sight and sound, poets have been striving ever since then to perform the same feat; but they will never make it, unless they throw away the dictionary and revise the language.

JAPANESE SOLDIER LOVES HIS HORSE

Cavalrymen of Nippon. Where Up to 1867: Horses Were Unknown. Excel All Other Soldiers in Patient and Affectionate Care of Their Mounts.

The Japanese cavalry was generally criticized at the outbreak of the war because of the poor quality of the horses. Japan had been able to secure. Horses were unknown in the old Japan and are practically unused there now. But the Japanese cavalry has done pretty well, after all. The soldiers take care of their horses. Writes a field surgeon in the Independent: "About a week ago I came upon a company of men who were engaged in transporting supplies for the army. The march was heavily, the weather was vile and the roadless country was the worst of all. The horses were tired. Depend upon it, the men were quite as tired as the horses. As soon as they came to a halt I saw a number of these fellows rush with their own canteens in the direction of a little stream of water.

"Why don't you lead your horses to the stream?" I asked one of the horsemen. He said simply this: "Why? Why, dear sir, these horses have made many miles over the country where they are too barbarous to have roads. They are tired, and we are running to fetch some water for them." And they did run, these men, like mad, fetching water, fodder and what little green vegetation there could be found.

"And these men, after fetching food and drink for the horses, after comforting them with all kinds of caresses, these tired men turned in and took to cooking beans in iron pots. Ask them why it is when they are so thoroughly tired, while their stomachs are empty and their legs are aching under them, they should take the trouble of cooking dry beans which are not meant for their mouths. In explaining this matter to a friend of mine I heard one of these transport men say: 'You see, sir, green feed—I mean too much of it—is not good for the horses. Sometimes a green feed and a strange climate make a rather rocky combination for the poor horse, and then you know these Chinese beans are not the softest things that you could bite, and Heaven knows these horses of ours have enough trouble without swallowing these beans green and uncooked.'

"No sooner are they done with their duties toward their horses than you find these good horsemen of ours rolling themselves up in a blanket and throwing themselves as if they were so many sacks of potatoes down anywhere at the feet of their horses, and pull for all they are worth for the land of sleep. I came upon a soldier the other day. He was trudging along a dusty highway and crying like a child. I laid my hand upon his shoulder and asked him, 'What is the matter? Are you wounded?' Started at first by the touch of my hand upon his shoulder, but in a second recognizing that I was nothing more than a surgeon, he shook his head, without saying a word. Then he went on crying as bitterly as ever. Naturally, I questioned him as to the reason for his grief. All the answer I received was a series of sobs, which were more heart-rending than the ones that had shaken his body, and, always weeping, he struggled on.

"At last he tried to say something, but could hardly say one word. His sobs broke even one word into so many pieces that I was obliged to sharpen my wit and senses, trying keenly in order to catch the meaning of what he was trying to say. I fancied that he said something about his horse.

"What about the horse?" I asked. He was overwhelmed once more with his grief, with his tears and with his heartrending sobs. It was very pitiful, and the sight of him touched my heart to such an extent that I was voiceless for many a minute. As soon as I regained my breath, with a hard-heartedness that passes all understanding I persisted in saying, 'What did you say was the matter with your horse?' "D-d-d-dead!" he at last managed to blurt out, and once again he was overwhelmed by the storm of tears and sobs that seemed to rend him into a thousand pieces. I do not know why I did not laugh outright. Perhaps his grief was too overwhelming, and there is that dignity that always belongs to the expression of sincere human emotion.

"I have seen many a soldier burying a hundred of his dead comrades after a fight. I have never seen such an overwhelming expression of grief as was shown by this lonely fellow who had lost his horse and refused to be comforted."

Mild Winter Predicted.

The Wonderful Spider.

Spiders are not insects, as most people think. The spider has eight legs, whereas an insect cannot have more than six. The nervous system is constructed on a totally different basis, and so are the circulation and respiration. The eyes are different, the insects having many compound eyes, and the spider never having more than eight and all of them simple. Then a spider has no separate head, the head and the thorax being fused together.

Milt Kinney of St. Louis Won the Decision Over Dick Green in Fifteen Rounds.

Kid Lemel Knocked Out Charley Cornwall in Sixth Round of Fast Fight.

after 15 rounds of mediocre milling in the main event of the West End Club's benefit for the detectives' last night.

Green last night looked like a prosperous alderman. He had rolls of unnecessary weight on his body, and after the first few rounds it was apparent that the best he could do was to apply a makeshift

Up to the sixth round he made a good showing and held Kinney to about even terms. After that his lack of condition put him in trouble in a short time. Kinney got to his face repeatedly with straight punches and hooks, and in the infighting he pounded the layers of fat about Green's stomach unmercifully.

Green devoted himself exclusively to avoiding a knockout. He clinched on the slightest provocation and hung desperately until pulled off. With more ring experience, Kinney probably could have ended the fight, but Green managed to stall his opponent through the end of the closing round. The semi-windup between Dick Leme and Charlie "The Kid" Smith was the best of the night.

In the sixth round Lemel dropped him again and this time for a finish, though it took more punches than in his business fight. The referee stepped in on a foul from Chas Morgan in the curtain-raiser. The battle royal was the usual fare.

One of the crowd who had not yet been accurately figured it is estimated that the detectives' fund will be increased about $1000.

EXPLOSION IN MINE; 21 DEAD

Bodies of Victims of Catastrophe Have Yet Been Recovered and Owner Thinks Many of Them Will Be Cremated.

IGNITION OF DUST WAS FOLLOWED BY CAVE-IN.

Property Is Completely Wrecked and Rescuers Are Unable to Reach Fatal Room—Company Has No Record of Men at Work.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Oct. 28.—Coroner B. B. Sipe has begun an inquiry into the fatal explosion which occurred yesterday afternoon in Terco mine No. 3, owned by the Rocky Mountain Coal company, an adjunct of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co.

"The report that 60 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion is untrue," said Coroner Sipe, after visiting the scene of the accident. "I believe there are 21 entombed in the mine, and 21 dead. I think that the explosion caused the roof of the mine to cave in, and a dust explosion.

POLICEMAN SAVES THREE FROM FIRE

Family Slept While Flames Consumed Dwelling Till Officer Kicked in Door

A family of three, consisting of Clay T. Bauer and wife, Clara, and their 2-year-old baby of 2404 North Taylor avenue, were rescued from death by fire at their home at 5 o'clock Saturday morning by Patrolman John Comer of the Fourth district.

Mrs. Bauer and her baby were carried down the steps of the fast-burning house and into the street, almost unconscious from smoke which had filled their bedroom.

The fire was discovered by Patrolman Comer and Emergency Special Officer John King. King ran to Taylor and St. Ferdinand avenues and turned in an alarm, while Comer began the work of saving the inmates of the house.

He kicked in the door of the first floor of the building and shouted. The flames were eating their way up to the second floor and the first floor had become a burning furnace.

Comer realized that if the persons were to be saved the second floor must be reached in a hurry, and he dashed through the smoke and flame to the stairway, cracking and popping from heat, and found the family sleeping and almost beyond help.

In an instant he grabbed Mrs. Bauer and the baby, and holding both burdens in his arms, staggered through the smoke, down the stairs and through the dense blackness of the first floor to the street.

Then he returned and found Bauer unconscious on the bed. He was quickly aroused, jumped to his feet and without stopping to dress hurried out to the street, where Mrs. Bauer and their child, roused to consciousness, were frantically crying.

A patrolman Comer returned to the sidewalk where he brought with him a bundle of clothes which he grabbed from a chair in the bedroom.

Comer returned for the third time into the burning building, the last time to get some valuables and a purse containing her family savings which had been placed under a pillow by Mrs. Bauer. With the possessions he returned to the sidewalk, and the fire department had arrived and was at work extinguishing the flames.

The first floor of the building, which is a two-story brick house, was completely gutted, although the second floor was not destroyed.

DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND STOCK MARKET

Improved Foreign Conditions Cause a Strong Advance and the Close Is Near the Best.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Prices on Wall street opened higher all along the line this morning and pronounced gains were recorded on all the active issues. The entire street showed the sudden reversal of sentiment from yesterday and in the majority of cases the market information was of a bullish nature.

The reaction of the adverse conditions abroad as a market factor and the practical assurance that ultimately the present difficulty between Russia and Poland would be amicably settled were reflected in the price of American securities in the London market before the opening of the exchange here. Gains of a point and over were general and considerable profits reflected the improved sentiment in a very sharp recovery.

Conditions generally remain favorable. The weekly reports of the leading manufacturers of an optimistic nature, and the indications are for a slow but steady improvement in all lines of industry. The weather in the harvest sections during the past week has remained favorable and the first returns from the source in a general harvest show all most record-breaking yields.

The high prices established at the opening brought into the market heavy selling orders for profit taking purposes, and under this influence a fractional reaction was precipitated. Special stocks moved in an irregular manner, but no sign of a regular reaction for favorable or unfavorable factors was observed.

The high prices established at the opening brought into the market heavy selling orders for profit taking purposes, and under this influence a fractional reaction was precipitated. Special stocks moved in an irregular manner, but no sign of a regular reaction for favorable or unfavorable factors was observed.

Reports from the markets abroad, especially from the London middle market, reflected the improvement in sentiment. English investment issues at the close of the session, and buying in the international market was considered favorable.

The buying in the general list continued until the close. Additional gains were secured by the leading issues, and the close was active and steady at a sharply higher level for the day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The subsidence of the war scare abroad and the buoyant tone of the London market in consequence communicated a very firm tone to the opening stock market today. The international market generally were up a large fraction to the level of the previous day, and sharp gains in other portions of the list.

Amalgamated Copper was carried up an extra 25¢ on running as one of very few blocks. Sugar and Tennessee Coal rose 1/8¢. Chicago Terminal preferred and Consolidated Gas 1/8¢. American Steel, Colorado Fuel, American Car, Chicago Terminal, Delaware & Hudson, and others advanced.

United States Steel preferred sold at the advance of 1/8¢, and the stock made a further advance after the close. Chicago Great Western opened with sales of 200,000 shares, 1/8¢, compared with 200,000 shares, 1/8¢, the last night. A decline in the price of the stock was the only exception to the strength.

Prices ran off slightly before the bank statement appeared, but rallied afterward, although the decline in surplus reserve was reported. The Erie and the Baltimore & Ohio were conspicuous in the rally, with a break in the Metropolitan stocks and a decline in the rest of the list.

Smoke Alarms Fair Crowds
Fall Swept by Wind From City Envelops East End of Exposition Grounds.

Phenomena unlike anything heretofore seen at the World's Fair caused thousands to marvel today this afternoon. Shortly before 1 o'clock a dense cloud of smoke arose from the city and enveloped the east end of the Fair. Many thought that there was a big fire raging in the city, and there was considerable alarm.

Before the appearance of the huge smoke blanket the atmosphere had been as clear as the sky at the Fair. After it spread over the eastern end of the grounds it was difficult to see the city from the Fair.

The explanation suggested is that it was the smoke and fog blanket from the city. The wind was blowing from the east, and the smoke was carried over the Fair.

suddenly saw that night the two torpedo boats between our two divisions and heard the noise of the firing of torpedoes, I doubted not that they were Japanese.

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—The reported statement of an officer on board the Russian battleship Emperor Alexander III, with the Russian Baltic squadron now at Vigo, Spain, to the effect that there were two foreign torpedo boats among the Hull trawlers when they were fired on recently by the Russian warships, and that the Japanese government was said to have purchased torpedo boats in England, coupled with the insinuation that the torpedo boats with the trawlers were Japanese, has been received in Japan with a mixed feeling of indigna-

It is officially declared in the most positive terms that Japan has neither purchased nor ordered a single torpedo boat in England since the outbreak of the war.

BEVERIDGE SAID TO FEAR FOR INDIANA

Senator Quoted as Remarking "It Is Now a Case of Every Man
for Himself."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29.—Senator Beveridge is reported to have admitted that the state is in danger.

"Conditions are such that I have resolved to look out for my own end," is what Mr. Beveridge is quoted as having said at Republican headquarters at Muncie.
"I will not go through the state with the Fairbanks special train. In my opinion
Indianapolis and Marion county are lost.
There will be at least 10,000 majority for the Democrats. It may be more than that."

Continuing, Senator Beveridge is reported to have said:
"Organized labor in Indianapolis is working hard for the entire Democratic ticket.
The cause of their opposition is the fact that they are looking for a man who will arouse their antagonism, and, unfortunately, the opposition to Hanly affects us all."

"It is now a case of every man for himself and God for us all. I have made up my mind that conditions impose upon me the necessity of looking strictly after my own interests for the few days left in this campaign."

DEMOCRATS HAVE NOT GIVEN UP CONNECTICUT.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 29.—Ex-Mayor
Sullivan, who has been stumping the state, said today that he considered the outlook
very bright for this state going for Parker and the Democratic state ticket.

It was announced this morning that Mayor Collins of Boston would probably preside at the meeting here when Judge Parker will speak.

Arrangements are being made to have a number of marching clubs escort the candidate to the Hartford Opera House, where the monster rally will be held.

WEST VIRGINIA IS EVEN BETTING PROPOSITION.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Gov.
A. P. White addressed a large audience here last night on the state tax issues, explaining to the Republicans what he considered the objectionable features of the new laws passed at the special session of the legislature last August.

His speech, following closely upon that made by John J. Corwell, Democratic nominee for governor, was attentively listened to by the Republicans, who are considered the majority in the state. Mr.
Corwell is also here, and thus the two leading exponents of the only issue in West Virginia are in town at the same time.

Each seems confident that the state will elect its electoral college vote to his own party, and betting is about even.

There has been some reaction among the men, who were supporting the Democratic ticket, because of pressure alleged to have been brought to bear upon them by the Standard Oil Co.

STRONG DRIFT TO PARKER INDICATED IN BUFFALO.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The Buffalo
News, in conjunction with the World correspondent, mailed 4000 return postal cards to registered voters in this city asking them to indicate which presidential candidate they supported in 1900 and which one they will support this year.

Of the 1221 replies received up to today
49 voters who were for Bryan (Dem.) in 1900 say they will vote for Roosevelt (Rep.) this year, while 1172 voters out of 1321 who declared themselves for Parker this year, say they voted the straight Republican ticket in 1900.

This indicates a strong drift to Parker in Erie County, which four years ago gave McKinley 492 plurality. If all Buffalo votes the way this impartial and unusual survey indicates, the postal card canvass indicates Roosevelt will carry the county by only 126 votes.

DOWIE SETS ASIDE ELECTION LAWS

Tells Illinois Democrats They Cannot Have Challengers at Zion City Polls.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 29.—John Alexander
Dowie, who styles himself John Alexander Dowie, the First Apostle, and who is the temporal and religious ruler of Zion City, Ill., has provoked a struggle with the Democratic party by announcing that he will allow no Democratic challengers at the polls in Zion City on election day.

Under the state law every candidate is entitled to a challenger at the polls on election day and the Democratic leaders in Lake County, in which Zion City is situated, declare that the party cannot be deprived of its representatives at the polls.

The state central committee has been called on to aid the Democrats of Lake County.

Dowie, on the other hand, declares the Democratic challengers "useless for the reason, he says, that no Democratic votes will be cast. The legal question as to whether a challenge may be selected from outside the township in which Zion City is situated, is also involved in the dispute.

BOY ROBBERS TO REFORMATORY

East St. Louis Youths Who Took Quarters From Slot Machines Are Sentenced.

William Burns, 15 years old, and John Madigan, 12 years old, East St. Louis boys, pleaded guilty in the Circuit Court at Bellevue Saturday to the charge contained in four indictments returned against them Friday by the St. Clair County grand jury, charging them with having stolen money from quarters-in-the-slot machines.

They were sentenced to indeterminate terms in the reform school at Pontiac.

Madigan was in court at the April term, charged with having stolen a bicycle, with three others. Through the efforts of his father and account of his youth, the case against him was dismissed, but as soon as he returned to East St. Louis, it is said, he again got into trouble.

SAYS CORTELYOU GAVE HIM A LIST

Hartford Newspaper Asserts
Chairman Was Told to Raise
His Own Funds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 29.—The telegram prints an article regarding a trip to New York of Chairman Kensely of the Republican state central committee.

He saw Chairman Cortelyou about getting funds for Connecticut, and the national chairman showed him a list of the industries in the state benefited by the tariff.

He asked the Connecticut chairman
how much these manufacturers had contributed. Then he said, according to the Hartford newspaper:

"Mr. Kensely, you ought to be ashamed to come here seeking assistance for your campaign in Connecticut. There's a list of men who owe—yes, absolutely owe—to the Republican party far more than you could possibly use in your state. You ought not to come here asking us for money, but you ought to bring the right out of Connecticut at least $200,000 to help us on elsewhere.
Good afternoon. Take that list with you."

Chairman Kensely denies the Telegram story.

The editor of the paper insists that it is true, and says he got it from an official in the employ of the Republican committee. Many of the members of the committee were present when Kensely is said to have told of his interview with Cortelyou, and Lieutenant-Governor Roberts, the candidate for governor, was also present.

CHIMNEY FULL OF SNAKES
Fire in Long Unused Cabin Brings
Down a Shower of Live Reptiles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., Oct. 27.—"Uncle Tommy" Westbrook, an aged colored man, had an experience near Sherman one day
of last week that he will never forget.

Tommy is a man-of-all-work, who recently removed to Sherman from Port Jervis.
He was given free rent of an old log house on condition that he would repair it and do some odd jobs for the owner. "Tommy"
and his wife and children duly arrived with their few household effects and prepared to keep house.

"Tommy" went to a grove near by and carried home a load of pine knots and cones. Putting them into the old fireplace, he soon had a roaring, crackling fire to dry out the place. While "Tommy" was unpacking a box, he heard a hissing sound from the fireplace, and looking up he saw a big snake drop down the chimney and into the blaze.

Mrs. Westbrook and the children ran from the cabin, but "Tommy" grasped an axe handle and waited developments. As the old building warmed up snakes of various hues and sizes slowly unwound and came out of the crevices and down from the rafters and up from the floor, hissing and squirring. Some of them showed fangs, but "Tommy" promptly placed them hors
de combat.

After the last snake appeared and the old man gathered up the visible dead.
There were 46 by actual count, and more than that number met death in the flames.

HURT IN COLLISION.
W. G. Brown, a conductor on the Case avenue division of the St. Louis Transit Co., was perhaps fatally injured at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, in a collision between two cars at Jefferson avenue and Arsenal street.

Brown was standing on the rear platform of his own car when another car, which was being switched, slipped past the switch and collided with terrible force with Brown's car. The conductor was crushed between the door of his car and the front end of the other car, after the vestibule had been knocked in.
